Fund manager's comment

The Athens Stock Exchange was among the top-ranked global markets in the first quarter of 2025, achieving a return of +14.7%, closing at 1,685.24 points. Total market capitalization increased to €118 billion with average daily trading at €189.8 million, up 14% from the last quarter of the previous year.

The strong investor interest is a result of the very good performance of the banking sector, the attractive dividend yields for shareholders, and the strong financial results announced by the listed companies. Important factors are the renewed estimates for even better results in the current fiscal year, as well as the expectations for an upgrade of the stock market to developed from emerging. Notably, the high profitability of listed companies supports the current equity valuations. At the same time, companies are pursuing ambitious, transformational business plans while maintaining strong profitability, thus underlying not only the resilience, but also the potential for further growth of the Greek economy.

The milestone event of the first quarter of 2025 was the upgrade of Greece's credit rating to investment grade level by Moody's, which paves the way to ASE for returning to the developed markets.

For the next quarter, the course of the economy, the performance of listed companies and the expected upgrade of the Athens Stock Exchange into the developed markets will remain the key determinants that are expected to shape developments. However, as uncertainties remain high regarding geopolitical developments and due to the aggressive imposition of tariffs by the US government, we expect volatility to increase, mainly due to exogenous factors.
